

Bio

Clinton Collins, either as a solo artist or with his band, presents a unique blend of Americana music, along with original, creative songwriting. His musical journey guides us through places and to people that seem familiar and stories that resonate with us all. From the rural back roads to the places of the heart; melodies are filled with humor and observations about relationships, faith and everyday living. His new album, This Day Is Mine, is a continuation of musical stories with overtones of Holy Ghost tent revivals, gospel organ and guitars and sensitivity about the human condition.

Solo Acoustic

As an award winning songwriter, Clinton weaves a solo performance with original songs, stories and selected covers from a lifetime of experience. His music paints vivid images and allows the listener to become part of the story. He performs solo throughout the year at house concerts, coffeehouses and various venues that accommodate the singer/ songwriter.

"Clinton is an amazing performer, songwriter and storyteller. I have seen him perform many times and have never failed to be impressed by his talent and by the truth that pours out in his music." Chris Hanson House Concert Host

Clinton Collins Band

Along with the band, Clinton presents an evening of upbeat, folky, electric Americana music. Using vintage guitar tones with a modern approach to arrangements. From bluesy gospel tones to touches of country will be heard throughout the performance. Clinton and the band will help make the evening a success and the crowd leaving with a smile.
